

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested food, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Rejuvenating Grandma.

Have you ever noticed, as the great touring cars and the homey family Fords have whizzed past, that there is nearly always a little old lady in one corner of the tonneau, wrapped in her ears in warm tugs, her bright eyes peering out through the ugly dark veil which holds on her crooked motor bonnet? It is grandmother—or perhaps Great-Aunt Eliza. The automobile has done a wonderful thing for the grandmothers and the great-aunts who lurk in the background of every family. They used to sit in the chimney corner and knit. They were not strong enough to walk, so they sat by the window and watched the world go by. Now they are ensconced permanently in a corner of the tonneau instead of in the chimney corner, and the world watches them go by. They never talk much, but nothing escapes them. They are good sports. No speed is too fast for them; no wind too stiff. They are in the middle of things, they are renewing their youth. And they simply love it!—Alice Littlefield in the Country Side Magazine for December.

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Stamford, Conn., Nurse Tells How She Found Health

Stamford, Conn.—"I am a nurse and suffered from a nervous breakdown. I had no appetite and could not sleep at night, and nothing seemed to help me. By chance I heard of Vinol, and after taking the first bottle I noticed an improvement, and four bottles made me well and strong; it gave me a hearty appetite, so I can sleep soundly night or day. I consider Vinol a wonderful tonic."

Edith R. Forbes, Stamford, Conn. The reason Vinol is so successful in overcoming such conditions is because it is a constitutional remedy and goes to the seat of the trouble. It is the greatest strength creator we know—due to the extractive medicinal elements of fresh cod livers without oil, combined with peptonate of iron and beef pepton, all dissolved in a pure, medicinal wine.

We have seen so many wonderful recoveries like this right here in Barre caused by Vinol that we feel perfectly safe in offering to return money in every such case where Vinol fails to benefit.

RAGE FOR STATE AID

Myron T. Herrick on Its Regrettable Features

AT CONFERENCE ON FARM CREDITS

Other Speakers Discuss the Helping of the Farmer—Farm Finance Wrong

Chicago, Dec. 3.—Amazing headway has been made in the farm credits movement in the use of the cash credit of government and of special privilege for farmers, said Myron T. Herrick in an address yesterday before the national conference on marketing and farm credits. Mr. Herrick summarized the situation in various states and offered suggestions for rural credits legislation. He says:

"Regrettable as the rage for state aid may be, it serves, however, a good purpose in proving conclusively that the rural credit facilities in the United States are bad; it would not have occurred if they were all right. It confirms everything that I and other men have been saying to the effect that American farm finance is basically wrong."

F. H. Newell of the University of Illinois, formerly director of the United States reclamation service, urged adoption of a system of rural credits which would meet the needs of the farmers operating irrigated lands in the West. Mr. Newell said in part:

"Throughout the western part of the United States, and particularly upon recently irrigated lands there exists a condition which demands attention. Although the number of farmers concerned may be small as compared with those throughout the East, yet the relative importance is great because these tens of thousands of irrigators form the mainstay of sparsely settled localities. If they are not able to attain a reasonable competence, the country will not keep the necessary population to maintain its progress."

"The United States has already invested more than $100,000,000 in building large works for the irrigation of arid lands in seventeen western states. In addition other hundreds of millions of dollars have been expended by individuals and corporations in reclaiming similar lands."

Robert D. Kent, president of the Merchants bank, Passaic, New Jersey, in an address Wednesday, proposed a system of rural credits organized after the manner of building and loan associations, the separate associations to be controlled by a central national body. He favored such a system because of its inherent tendency to encourage private initiative. He said that government operation of any business was not to be desired and was not necessary. He hoped for a self-capitalized system of rural credits. The whole system should be under the supervision of a federal official who should bear somewhat the same relation to the various associations that is borne by the comptroller of the currency to national banks."

FARMERS' CO-OPERATION

Has Resulted in Great Profit in Canadian Provinces.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—How, through co-operation, grain growers in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, have made a profit of $1,000,000 was told by George E. Chipman, Winnipeg, in an address before the National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits. Mr. Chipman said in part:

"Within nine years the grain growers of western Canada have organized three companies for the handling of their grain, operating 400 country elevators and one large terminal elevator at the head of the Great Lakes. The total assets of these farmers' companies are over four and a half million dollars, and the paid up capital is one and a half million. They have handled more than 250,000,000 bushels of grain and have made a net profit of $1,000,000."

"All of this has not been brought about without a terrific struggle against the forces of the organized grain trade of Canada and it is only a matter of a few years when they will market three-quarters of the Canadian grain crop. It is also expected that in the future they will go into flour milling and possibly operate their own steamships."

Bartender Makes Fortune by Keeping Clean.

The success of a bartender in the moving picture business as told in the December Western Home Companion is an excellent illustration of what the public wants and how the exhibitor can grow rich by giving it to them. A few years ago one of the leading New York exhibitors was working behind the bar.

"He saw some motion pictures, realized their wonderful entertainment value, and decided that here was his big opportunity. He rented the empty room above the saloon, got a scrub-brush, some straw and a pail of water, and scrubbed the place on his hands and knees."

Cleanliness was his slogan in his films as well as his theatre.

"Any picture that he thought was lower he would not show. Objectionable parts of other films he cut out, after marking the place on the film where the scene was to be inserted again before the film was sent on to the next man on the circuit."

From his bid to move his theatre because of increased business. That his success was so great that he tried his luck in New York. Today he is the proprietor of one of the largest and finest theatres in the city.

Mineral Production Over $1,000,000,000.

The value of the mineral production of the United States in 1914, according to the United States geological survey, was $2,114,540,000, being exceeded only by that of two years—1913 and 1912.

The metallic products in 1914 were valued at $991,690,343, and the non-metallic products at $1,122,849,656.

SALTS IS FINE FOR KIDNEYS; QUIT MEAT

Flush the Kidneys at Once When Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful, effervescent, lithia-water drink, which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

DARK AGES OF MEDICINE

Many cathartics are noxious doses, offensive to taste and smell. Some people think that they are not taking medicine unless it has a bad taste. Otherwise nobody would think of taking croton oil or castor oil or salts to move the bowels. They belong to the past. Harsh cathartics, except in extreme emergency, never were advisable.

It is now possible to take a laxative that will give nature a little gentle assistance and to increase the dose when more action is desired. Pinkettes, the tiny pink laxative pills, make this possible and they never gripe.

Your druggist sells Pinkettes. A few simple and a useful book on the treatment of constipation will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

BURLINGTON LOST IN INDUSTRIAL LINE

Census Bureau Report for 1914 Shows That Wage Earners Decreased and Value of Products Decreased from 1914.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3.—A preliminary statement of the general results of the census of manufactures for the city of Burlington, Vt., has been issued by Director Sam. L. Rogers, of the bureau of the census, department of commerce. It consists of a summary comparing the figures for 1909 and 1914, by totals, prepared under the direction of William M. Stewart, chief statistician for manufactures.

The population of Burlington at the census of 1910 was 20,468, and it is estimated that it was 21,247 on July 1, 1914. The statistics represent the establishments located within the corporate limits of the city.

Capital Invested. The capital invested, as reported in 1914, was $6,225,000, and in 1909, $6,476,000. The average capital per establishment was approximately $72,000 in 1914 and $79,000 in 1909. In this connection it should be stated that the inquiry contained in the census schedule calls for total amount of capital, both owned and borrowed, invested in the business, but excludes the value of rented property, plant, or equipment which was employed in the conduct of manufacturing enterprises. In the final bulletins and reports the rental paid for such property will be shown separately.

Cost of Materials. The cost of materials used in 1914 was $4,131,000, as against $4,130,000 in 1909. The average cost of materials per establishment in 1914 was approximately $47,000 and in 1909, $50,000. In addition to the component materials which enter into the products of the establishment for the census year there are included the cost of fuel, mill supplies and rent of power and heat. The cost of materials, however, does not include unused materials and supplies bought either for speculation or for use during a subsequent period.

The census inquiry does not include amounts paid for miscellaneous expenses, such as rent of offices, royalties, insurance, ordinary repairs, advertising, traveling expenses, or allowance for depreciation.

Value of Products. The value of products in 1914 was $6,637,000 and in 1909 $6,800,000. The average per establishment in 1914 was approximately $76,000 and in 1909 $83,000.

The value of products represents their selling value or price at the plants as actually turned out by the factories during the census year and does not necessarily have any relation to the amount of sales for that year. The values under this head also include amounts received for work done on materials furnished by others.

Salaries and Wages.

The salaries and wages in 1914 amounted to $1,444,000 and in 1909 $1,411,000. In 1914 the number of salaried employees was 304, as compared with 353 in 1909.

The average number of wage earners in 1914 was 2,132 and in 1909, 2,371.

Summary for the City.

STREAM MEASUREMENTS.

Federal Government Co-operates With Several States.

The measurement of streams was begun by the U. S. geological survey in 1888 in connection with special studies of water for irrigation, and since 1895 the appropriations by Congress for the survey have each year included an item for gaging streams of the country.

Measurements of flow have been made at about 2,000 points in the United States and at many points in small areas in Seward peninsula and the Yukon-Tanana region, Alaska, as well as in the Hawaiian Islands. In this work many private and state organizations have co-operated, either by furnishing data or financial assistance. In July, 1913, about 1,200 gaging stations were being maintained by the survey and the cooperating organizations, and many measurements of discharge were made at other points.

A report on the North Atlantic coast basins, just issued, represents the results of cooperative work between the federal survey and the states of Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts, and New York in 1912. It gives the results of investigations of the streams that enter the Atlantic from N. Coast river, Maine, to Buzzardsneck river, Virginia, which discharges into the lower end of Chesapeake bay, and includes also the measurements of flow of St. John river, which reaches the ocean through the province of New Brunswick. The records include descriptions of the stations at which the measurements were made and tables of gage heights and daily and monthly discharge.

The report, published as water supply paper 350, is highly technical in character and has no interest for the general reader but will be useful to engineers and others interested in the utilization of the streams. Copies may be obtained without charge by applying to the director, United States geological survey, Washington, D. C.

A Better Understanding.

The world wave of indignation that washed away even neutral restraint at the time of Edith Cavell's execution in Brussels has subsided. Execution of two German women spies in France helped to spread an understanding of the rigors of war-time law enforcement. And sober second thought showed Miss Cavell in the light of super-spy.

She was an English woman who had been permitted to remain in Brussels after the German occupation only upon her promise to devote herself to nursing. She was not only aiding the enemies of Germany by helping English and Belgian soldiers to escape, but she was betraying a trust.

Here the Review of Reviews reminds us that England never would have permitted a German woman to occupy such a position of trust. Germany took Miss Cavell's word for her conduct, and then imposed the death penalty when she violated her obligation.

Miss Cavell was a martyr. There is no question of that. She was acting for her country, and her deeds are to be admired. What would have been a grave offense against honor had she acted individually becomes a glorious sacrifice to patriotism when performed for her country.

Even the Germans must have admired Miss Cavell for her daring. She broke faith, but not for her own sake.

And so war's distortion of life rules goes on. What is right for the individual in peace is wrong in war; and what is right in war is wrong in peace. In the hideous emergency that reverse all rules of normal living it is risky to judge any act of war by the records or the codes of peace. The Cavell case shows us that.—Boston Journal.

TREAT CATARRH BY NATURE'S METHOD

Every Breath of Humors Carries Healing. Medicated Air in the Infected Membrane.

Nearly everyone who has catarrh knows how foolish it is to try and cure it with sprays, lotions, and the like. Temporary relief may be given, but a cure seldom comes.

Until recently your physician would probably have said the only way to help catarrh would be to have a change of climate, but now with a simple preparation called Hyman's you can carry a health-giving climate in your vest pocket and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day successfully treat yourself.

The complete Hyman's outfit is inexpensive and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyman's. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if one bottle does not give prompt relief, an extra bottle of Hyman's can be obtained at any time for a trifling sum. It is never economical to treat all respiratory ailments for the sake of catarrh, and is the only treatment known to us that follows nature in her method of treating diseases of the respiratory organs.

The Red Cross Pharmacy has sold a great many Hyman's outfits and the more they sell the more convinced they are that they are perfectly safe in guaranteeing to refund the money if Hyman's does not relieve.—Adv.
